A hand painted animated video that is over the top, over wrought in color and cartoonism, feeding off of gaming and exploding with symbolism and over saturated hyperbole, is the standout at the galleries on La Cienega this week. This video blasts viscerally into your vision with a kind of grotesqueness that is at once humorous and eviscerating. The volume of the sounds and sights works wonderfully with the message of over blown consumerism, madmen that rule and ruin the earth, and the hype of media. From Eden to evacuation, we watch the death of corporation rule, star personas, and fascist governments. The future is here my friends, in the form of a crazed hyper visual intensity that is the epitome of the condensing of information in our computer and internet driven world.

The show runs through October 20 at Luis De Jesus Los Angeles.
